

IARC SALON

Thursday • November 15 • 2 – 3 pm • IARC 401

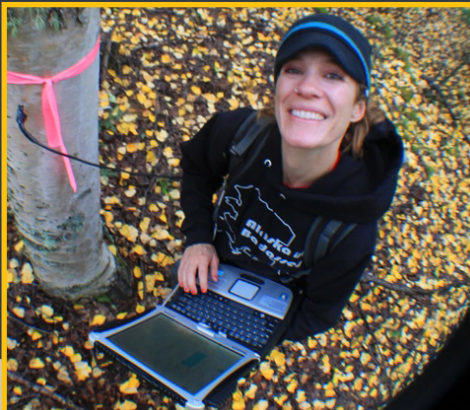

Mental health in the sciences

KAJA BRIX

Arctic programs director, NOAA Fisheries Alaska Region

I have worked at the interface of science, policy and people for 20 years. I hope my lived experience benefits others on their path.

JESSIE YOUNG-ROBERTSON

Boreal forestry research ecologist

I am interested in the intersection of mental health and science. Our internal state and the science culture can burn out our creative drive and bring us to our knees.

GUNNAR EBBESSON

Chief operating officer & cofounder of Turning Point Counseling

My passion is working with addiction & trauma. Maintaining enthusiasm and joy in my high stress job is also important to me.
